EXCELLENCE IN THE WRITTEN WORD

ON THE BACK COVER

In the ministry for over three decades, John Lehman has enjoyed many aspects of educational and pastoral ministry. One topic very dear to his heart is that of marriage. Since God formalized its importance early in the creation process, and since He used it as the focal point for showing the world the relationship between Christ and His Church, it is a topic that is even more dear to God's heart. Through the writing of this book, John hopes to encourage couples, whether engaged, newlyweds, seasoned marriage partners, or those who are having conflicts in any of those circumstances.

In any marriage, it is extremely important to recognize that there are certain areas which must be guided and guarded. The five areas which can attract significant challenges and difficulties are as follows: role relationships, communication, physical relationships, finances, and parenting. Throughout this book, biblical content is sought to help couples be all they can be for God's glory, and in so doing, be able to show the world Christ and the Church through their own personal marriage relationship.

WORDS OF APPRECIATION

In I Do or I Don't, Dr. Lehman provides an insightful and practical resource for church leaders and couples alike. Readers will sense John's gracious spirit as he encourages couples to strengthen their marriage for the glory of God using time-tested, biblical principles. John's expertise flows, not just from years of counseling and pastoring and conference-speaking, but from leading a marriage that really works! Struggling couples should take heart and take notes!
Brad Stille, Pastor of First Baptist Church of Wixom, MI

Gospel truth and biblical principles—this book will take both and bring them to bear on marriage. The Scripture is full of truth that will guide and direct our marriages. So, whether you are soon to be married or have been for years—read, meditate on, and apply the truths in this book.

Jeremy McMorris, Lead Pastor, Liberty Baptist Church, Dalhart, TX

...a refreshing resource for couples who desire a Christ-centered, Spirit-empowered marriage.

Ben Ice, Family Life Ministries, Calvary Baptist Church, Simpsonville, SC

Because John "practices what he preaches," I encourage you to consider utilizing this book for your own personal edification and your own marriage enrichment, as well as assisting others in their pursuit of God's will for their lives in the portrayal of Christ and the Church.

Suzie Lehman, John's wife
